MEMORANDUM FOR THE RECORD

5 August 1946

At the request of General Chamberlain, WD G-2, I met with him in his office at 1000 this date. The General was desirous of adding to his background reference atomic intelligence--in preparation for a conference with the Secretary of War on 6 August 1946.

I explained that the discussion regarding circulation of foreign atomic intelligence between the Manhattan project and G-2 had been continuous over a period of several months with no definite decisions having been made one way or another. That sometime during the early part of May 1946 a conference on the subject was scheduled for discussion by General Hull, General Vandenberg and General Groves. That General Vandenberg was absent from the country at the time and his place on the conference was taken by Colonel Clarke, Deputy G-2.

General Chamberlain then brought up the question as to what should be done with the foreign atomic intelligence research group now in the Manhattan project. He stated that, in his opinion, some of the personnel should be transferred to WD G-2 and probably some to ONI. I disagreed with this premise from two standpoints:

1. The group was small and breaking them up would destroy continuity, duplicate effort, and compromise security.
2. Foreign atomic intelligence was not only of interest to the Army and Navy but was definitely of interest to State and later would be of interest to the Atomic Energy Commission. That it was therefore a matter of common interest to all departments mentioned and logically the research group should be centralized under CIG.

Upon my return from General Chamberlain's office, I called the office of General Groves. The General was absent from the city but I explained my meeting with General Chamberlin to Colonel Templar, General Groves Executive. He said he would contact General Groves and pass the information to him.

At 1130 I was called by Mr. Schott of the Secretary of War's Office and was directed to be present in the Secretary's office at 0930 on 6 August at the conference between the Secretary, General Groves and General Chamberlin.

Release 2002/08/21 : CIA-RDP80R01731R002700010003-3

between all present, the Secretary directed that an NIA paper be prepared which provided for the collection and research of foreign atomic intelligence under the supervision of CIG. It was assumed that no actual transfer of personnel would be accomplished until after the selection of the members of the Atomic Energy Commission.

I agreed to have a draft of such a paper for General Chamberlin's concurrence by 7 August 1946.

On my return to the office, I contacted [redacted] and 25X1 arranged to see him at 1400 to inform him of the action being taken. On 25X1 explaining the situation to [redacted] he concurred with our ideas but strongly recommended, for matter of policy, that the directive be processed through IAB.

At 1515, accompanied by Colonel [redacted] I visited Colonel 25X1 Eddy, State Department. During our conversation the above matter was brought out. Colonel Eddy is strongly in favor of the plan proposed and, like [redacted], requested the paper be processed through IAB.
